Turin (Italy)

Ema participated at Terra Madre

The third edition of the biennial international meeting of the Terra Madre Network took place in Torino from October 23rd to 27th. For four days it brought together food communities, cooks, academics and youth delegates. Emanuela met there Nicola Perullo, from the University of Taste, where they participated in a discussion with writers, philosophers and chefs. They talked about the concept of pleasure that comes along with a sweet, something universally recognized. Taste is therefore conceived in terms of pleasure. The discussion also dealt with the memory linked to food and how a taste becomes a cultural heritage.

Afterwards Emanuela met an israelic chef from "Chef for peace" who cooks original recipes from the Bible. Together with other cooks coming from all over they prepared some dishes while sharing ideas, discussing about impressions or explaining the origins of the ingredients. When Ema explained the LDP project they found it all very interesting. The experience of cooking together was the real implementation of the discussion held during the morning.

Doel (Belgium)

Eva and Frie are active saving Doel from demolition

Exciting news came from Doel: Some 120 photographers and photographers' models came to Doel for a special models' happening. This event received enormous media coverage: all the newspapers and the main state, commercial and local TVs were in the village.

They also interviewed Frie as local KunstDoel representative (see in dutch <http://www.deredactie.be/cm/de.redactie/mediatheek/1.400479>), and the main headlines in Monday's newspapers were "Only Art May Be Able To Save Doel" (quoting Frie).

Eva organised a photo exhibition and a premiere of a documentary film about Doel for the 2nd of November in the historic Hooghuis and Frie organised for today a classical concert organized in the church of Doel. Eva is also busy for the big event at the University of Antwerpen on the 13th of November, where they are going to present the LDP project and a recipe book. Emanuela is going to be in Belgium meeting Eva for a press conference, which is scheduled for the 14th of November.
